

Salvation's Edge Verity fashion

This is, hopefully, a useful guide to creating a fireteam with easily identifiable fashion options to recognise the statues in Salvation's Edge's Verity encounter. In the main, I've used ornamentation that you can see around the head, although occasionally I've also used things that you can see over the shoulders of a statue.

These options should be easier to make out – I've concentrated on the pinkish wispy silhouettes that would be visible when you're looking from the third-person perspective when petrified by the Witness, and ignored more fine detail which would be more difficult to see in a hurry. I've also omitted any armour with holographic ornamentation, which doesn't show when looking at a statue.

I've given the category that each option appears in, when you look through your armour from the Character screen, which are also how they're listing in the Records > Collections tab in DIM, and the short description of the silhouette when looking head-on that came to my mind when I was trying to categorise them.

If you choose across your fireteam so only one person is using a helmet/cloak with no ornamentation and no two Guardians are wearing fashion from the same category, that should make identification easier when time is short...

Hunter

Hunters get a bit of a raw deal, as pretty much all of the helmet options have smooth outlines as they're usually covered by hoods, so you need to rely on more characterful cloaks. There are a few cloaks that are hoodless – the limited helmet options are in the "No-hood cloak" section.

One horn

I've included cloaks with a pointy top in here, so there's a bit of variety.
